VENUE

The meeting will be held at Newcastle City Hall. Designed by famed 1920s theatre architect Henry Eli White, and an elaborate example of his famous 'Spanish Baroque' style, Newcastle City Hall boasts architecture and ambience as dramatic as the performances that have graced the stages of this magnificent building for more than 80 years. Located in the heart of the Cultural Precinct opposite Civic Park and adjacent to the Civic Theatre, Newcastle City Hall is within close proximity to public transport, accommodation, the CBD, Honeysuckle and parking.

DESTINATION

Newcastle is Australia's 7th largest city and one of its oldest. It has a fast growing reputation as a conference destination as it offers a unique blend of big city facilities and country town friendliness. It is the capital of the Hunter Region and the most popular tourist destination outside of Sydney in NSW.

Newcastle is the gateway to the attractions of the region including Hunter Valley Wine Country, Lake Macquarie, the wilderness of the Upper Hunter or the Shores of Port Stephens, renowned for its dolphin population and whale watching opportunities.

INVITED SPEAKERS

Simon Thomas, UK
Janaka de Silva, Sri Lanka

TOPICS TO BE INCLUDED IN THE PROGRAM:

- ECG in poisoning
- Addiction medicine
- Free papers
- Snake envenoming

GETTING THERE

Newcastle is an easy 2 hour drive from Sydney or 2.5 hours by rail. Alternatively, direct flights are available from Sydney, Brisbane, Melbourne, Gold Coast and Canberra. For an unforgettable way to arrive in Newcastle, consider the Sydney Seaplane service, weekdays from Rose Bay.

INVITATION TO ATTEND

May 2014 will again see the city of Newcastle, New South Wales, host the Toxicology And Poisons Network Australasia - TAPNA - scientific meeting. A medium sized city, with a long and proud history of original research in Clinical Toxicology, Newcastle is situated just 150 km north of Sydney and showcases some of the most beautiful beachside scenery that Australia has to offer.

Building on the success of the very successful 2013 meeting, TAPNA 2014 is expected to attract delegates from overseas as well as within Australia and New Zealand. Opportunities to present original research will be available as well as state of the art lectures in what will be a stimulating, educational experience.

TAPNA 2014 will be an event not to miss for doctors, nurses, pharmacists and other health care professionals within Clinical Toxicology and poison centres as well as clinicians from acute medical specialties which have to deal with poisoning.

We look forward to welcoming you to Newcastle for TAPNA 2014.
